STATE NEWS

Androscoggin

The eighteth birthday of Rev. D. B. Randall, of Auburn, was celebrated by his friends throughout the State now gathered at Old Orchard Beach on Monday afternoon. A picnic dinner was eaten on the lawn in front of the residence of the Misses Oliver. Speaking and singing were indulged in, and many valuable tokens of friendship were left for the aged preacher.

Cumberland

This summer, extensive repairs are being made in both the Portland Custom House and Post Office. The plumbing in the Custom House is to be thoroughly overhauled and repaired, and also the plumbing of the Post Office building. The steam heating apparatus in both buildings will be fixed up and considerable painting is being done in the interior of the Post Office building. Mr. William Wheeler, the government superintendent of repairs, has arrived here, and will remain in the city about two months, the work of making the repairs being carried on under his direction.

Judge Carter, of Haverhill, is enjoying his visit to Portland. After an absence of nearly thirty years, in the seventy third year of his age, he finds there many friends who remember the time when he edited the Advertiser and the Republican party was formed. When he entered the Supreme Court room, Wednesday, the first man who greeted him was President Chaney of Bates College. They were both members of the Maine Legislature in 1870, and have never met since. Wednesday morning, Judge Carter visited the Advertiser office. Afterward he listened to the arguments before the Supreme Court, and in the afternoon entertained a family party at dinner at the Falmouth Hotel.

Wednesday morning, as an outward bound freight train on the Maine Central railroad, was passing through Falmouth the engineer saw a man lying across the track in front of the train. It was too late to stop, but the whistle was blown to attract the man's attention and the speed of the train diminished as much as possible. The man did not heed the signal and was run over, his body being cut in two. The train was backed to the spot and the body was placed in proper care. Coroner Gould was notified and went to Falmouth in the forenoon. The coroner found that the body was that of a young man nineteen or twenty years of age, tall and slim, with dark hair. He was dressed in dark blue clothes. The man was a stranger and all that is known about him is that half an hour before he met his death, he accosted a Frenchman of whom he inquired the way to Lewiston. He then started to walk along the track. How he came to be lying across the rails is not known.

Hancock

Mrs. Gray, of Orland, a lady ninety years old, living with her son, Harmon Gray, in the part of the town called "Gilpin," fell on the doorstep, Saturday morning, and fractured the neck of the thigh bone. It is a hard case for so old a lady, for her age is much against her recovery.

Mrs. Eliza Webster, aged sixty four years, was found dead in her bed a short time ago. Her home was at Mt. Desert, but up to the time of her death she had been acting as nurse for Mrs. S. Norwood, of Orrington. Heart disease is believed to have been the cause of her sudden death.

Kennebec

The farm buildings of Mr. Augustus Libby, located about two miles south of Albion village, were burned, Wednesday. There was an insurance of $300, but the loss was much in excess of the sum. We were unable to learn the cause of the fire.

Lincoln

There has been quite a stampede among the seiners from Boothbay the past week. They have all gone to the North Bay, with the exception of two or three, and they are getting ready to go. They say all of the mackerel have gone there and they are obliged to do so or get nothing, as was the case last year with those who stopped on the shore. There are distinctive schools of fish that belong to the Bay, being very different from those caught on our coast. The bay fish are long and straight and hold the tapering uniform to the end of the tail, while those that belong to the coast are very thick and full and do not begin to taper until within an inch of the tail.

Mrs. James Hoffses, of North Waldoboro, says the Thomaston Herald, is the owner of a cat, which had a severe fight with a fox one day last week. Mrs. Hoffses was standing in her dwelling house door, and she saw a fox make his appearance from the woods and come within two rods of the house. At the same time, the cat jumped from the threshold of the door and the two had a combat. The fox was determined to master his prey, but the cat being a large one and very knowing, the fox got his match. The cat overpowered the fox and followed him for some rods, but the fox not being satisfied, right about face and made for his prey again. But the cat being more fierce than ever made the second attack, and this time the animal was glad to disappear to the woods. Mrs. Hoffses declares that she will keep the cat as long as she lives.

Somerset.

Thursday, an old man named David Johnson, employed in the Skowhegan woolen mill, went to the house of Sumner Pooler in search of his wife who left him some six weeks ago. His wife's sister lived at Mr. Pooler's, but she refused to give him any information about his wife as he was apparently insane. Finally he took a revolver from his pocket and began firing, evidently trying to kill himself. Mr. Pooler tried to interfere and narrowly escaped being shot. The firing ceased after a number of shots had been fired and Johnson was found dead, having killed himself.

Waldo.

Mr. J. W. Mitchell, special constable for Waldo county, called upon Internal Revenue Collector Page at Portsmouth last week, and asked to see the books, but was refused. The law says the records shall be open to inspection by the public. The Collector said he did not care for the law; he should not show the books unless he was compelled to do so, and that he was protecting the people who were doing business with the government.

Capt. Ernest Patterson, of Belfast, in command of steamer Mount Waldo, is now in Belfast on a brief vacation. He says his vessel has been chartered for two years by the government and is now at Philadelphia receiving new and larger boilers. The steamers will be used in dredging out the Godney channel at the entrance to New York harbor. Capt. Patterson has been retained at an increased salary, and the crew, also of Belfast, has been retained. The contract is very satisfactory to the owners of the steamer and to Capt. Patterson.

Mrs. Frank Wentworth, of Waldo, while driving home from Belfast, Saturday, was thrown out and badly injured. Three of her ribs on the left side were fractured and she received other serious injuries. A child in the wagon with her was also thrown out but not injured. The accident was caused by the horse stumbling.

The committee recently appointed by the Belfast city government, associated with some of the citizens, have bargained for a steam fire engine. The machine, as mentioned last week, can be hired at $50 per month, or bought for $1,500, and will be hired until the completion of the water works and then bought if desirable. The machine is in New York and is owned by the Fabric Fire Hose Company, of Boston. It was built by Clapp & Jones, and has been used in Kingston, N. Y. Seven hundred and fifty feet of stout hose have been bought for the steamer, but can be used on the hydrants of the water works.

A number of people in Belfast subscribed for Colby's Atlas of Maine, published in Houlton but refused to receive and pay for it, claiming that the Atlas was imperfect, says the Journal. Six of the respondents fought on the question of jurisdiction, the parties having been sued in Houlton. The law court has decided that Mr. Colby has jurisdiction in Houlton and rather than fight the case there the respondents have settled paying for the atlas and the cost. In the case of Mr. Fred A. Carle a different question of law came up and it has been decided in his favor. Doubtless others who were not sued will be obliged to settle.

Capt. and Mrs. John Philbrook of Winterport, met with a sad bereavement last week in the sudden death of their little daughter Rosa, who died on board their vessel, the schooner Electa Bailey, on the passage to Wilmington, Del. When they left New York on Sunday the little one was in her usual health, but on Monday she was attacked with Cholera morbus and thrown into violent convulsions. They were one sixty miles from and in the time but they immediately signalled a tug boat and made for the nearest port where a physician was called and everything possible done for the relief of the little sufferer but it was of no avail and on Tuesday, June 12, she passed away. She was brought home for burial and the funeral services were held at their home on Friday, conducted by Rev. W. Baldwin.

Washington

We regret to learn that County Treasurer Ignatius Sargent, of Machias is somewhat out of health. It is to be hoped he may not remain long so.

Capt. Wm. R. Sawyer, of Milbridge a prominent citizen and well known ship builder died Sunday night from the effects of injuries received six weeks ago by falling from a load of hay. He was sixty seven years of age had represented his district in the Legislature, and in business was an honorable and successful man.

Stevie, the eight year old son of Mr. Isaiah Burton of Sioux City, who is spending the summer at Eastport with his mother, met with a severe accident Monday. He was riding on Burton's ice car and after the horse had stopped he started again suddenly throwing the little boy down on the cart among the ice cakes breaking his left arm between the elbow and shoulder and badly bruising his face. He is about again now however as bright as ever.

York

A man by the name of Libby, who is employed at J. B. Palmer's granite quarry in Biddeford, took off a blast at the quarry Wednesday and failed to get out of the way before the explosion occurred. The powder flew into his face, burning the flesh a dead black and swelling the eyes, and also cut and burned his arms and neck badly. His injuries were attended to by a physician. It is thought that his eyesight will not be impaired.

NEWS FROM EASTERN MAINE.

Hampden Letter.

[Regular Correspondence Whig and Courier.]

Farmers are well along with their haying, and many not already through will finish this week. Reports from different sources would indicate that the crop is better than the average.

The members of the ladies sewing circle of the M. F. church had an ice cream and cake sociable, Tuesday evening. A large number was present and a liberal sum realized.

Quarterly meeting at the M. E. church next Sunday. The sermon in the afternoon will be by the presiding elder, Rev. F. H. Osgood.

The posters announcing the fall term of the academy, which begins August 30th, are conspicuous about town.

W. E. Bogart, Esq., has recently received two large cargoes of coal for his winter supply.

The play of "Rosedale" which was presented here with so much success several weeks ago by some of our best local talent, will soon be given again here and in Belfast. There is to be the same cast of characters as before, with the exception of Mr. F. A. Owen, of Bangor, who will assume the part of Elliot Gray, and Mrs. W. F. Shaw, also of Bangor, as Lady Florence May, and Miss Kittie Conant, of Belfast, as Rosa Leigh. Great credit is due Mrs. A. I. Mather for her efforts in first presenting the play in this city. It was presented as a charity enterprise to aid the G. A. R. Post, and when you take into consideration the amount of work necessary to make it a success, it was quite an undertaking; but Mrs. Mather took hold of it with that persistence for which she is noted and presented it with grand success as a play and financially.

The venerable Rev. Dr. Patton of Washington, D. C., President of Harvard University occupied the pulpit of his son in law Rev. D. P. The closing exercises of the summer term of the village district school Mr. M. A. Cochrane teacher, took place last Friday afternoon and although coming in the busiest season of the year a large number of the children's parents were present thus showing a lively interest in their success. The programme consisted of recitations of the classes in geography singing declamations and a dialogue by four little Misses and then reading giving the standing of the school for the term was presented to each after being read by the teacher. The exercises closed with appropriate remarks by several of the parents. The remainder of the afternoon was delightfully spent by the children and the teacher's home in all sorts of games and finishing with an excellent picnic supper in the orchard.

Reformer Powell.

The Boston Herald in its review of the Ohio Democratic Convention admits that it is rather a forlorn hope for the Democrats in that State this fall, but expresses the opinion that of the gentlemen named the convention selected the worthiest candidate as Mr. Powell "is more sincere in his support of President Cleveland, and stands more nearly in line with the reform element of his party." We shall not dispute the statement that Mr. Powell is sincere in his support of the President, or that he is in line with the Cleveland idea of reform which we regard as about the meanest thing in modern politics, but desire simply to call attention to the particular kind of reform work Mr. Powell has been engaged in. From the biographical sketch sent out of the nominee we find it stated that he served as Chairman of the Democratic State Committee in 1885. That was the year the Democratic managers made a scandalous attempt to steal the seat of Senator Sherman, employing methods so shameful that even the Democratic Washington Post denounced them as an "outrage" and declared that the campaign conducted by Chairman Powell was "rank and smells to heaven." It was nothing more nor less than an effort to carry the Legislature by the same methods that have made elections in the South a mere mockery on free suffrage.

In order to get control of the Legislature the ballot boxes were tampered with, an absolute forgery of two hundred votes committed by changing a figure "seven" to "nine," the indisputable evidence of which was shown on the face of the returns, while by the withholding of returns a Democratic Judge who was defeated by 32,000 plurality was kept in office long enough to render a decision overruling that of another Court, thus enabling the Democrats to utilize the fraud to gain temporary control of the State Senate. Fortunately these frauds, which made the Democratic party of Ohio a hissing and a by-word throughout the country, failed to accomplish the bold plot so carefully planned by the managers of that organization, but they serve to show the kind of a reformer Mr. Powell is, the man the Herald now claims is more nearly in line with the Cleveland idea of reform than either of the other candidates. The Mugwumps are welcome to a monopoly of that kind of reform, but the people of Ohio have had more than enough of it. Forewarned is forearmed. The voters of that State have had ample opportunity to study the campaign methods of Mr. Powell and this fall will bury him under a majority so large that even this man of bold expedients will be unable to wipe it out by forgery or otherwise.

A Remarkable Somersault.

But a few days ago the New York Evening Post, the mouthpiece of the Administration, denounced the Grand Army as an "organization chiefly concerned in extorting undeserved offices and pensions for unworthy members," and now it comes to hand with a carefully prepared article claiming that Mr. Cleveland is really the best friend this organization ever had in the White House. This change of front is significant. Under the tutorship of the President his organs have assailed the old soldiers until one would infer that instead of being the saviors of the country they had been guilty of some great wrong. The President opened this systematic warfare in his veto messages to Congress, making use of the most coarse and brutal language in referring to the Union veterans, while at the same time he had nothing but honeyed words and smiles for the men who were arrayed against them in open rebellion. Then came the veto of the Dependent Pension bill and the approval of the Mexican bill, carrying with it pensions for the ex-Confederates, to be followed by the flag order and further insult to the Grand Army in his now famous St. Louis letter. The Administration organs appalled at the storm of indignation from all parts of the country first sought to help the President out of his predicament by rombining in their abuse of the soldiers, thinking to bluster it out, but they soon realized the mistake of such a course and with the stress of a Presidential election upon them they have performed one of the most remarkable somersaults on record and to-day are raking the Pension office fore and aft to find material with which to convince the veterans that Mr. Cleveland is the true friend in spite of the damaging evidence to the contrary. The record of the President's hostility to Union soldiers, however, is too clear to admit of any doubt and this sudden change of front for votes only will not deceive the veterans.

Mr. Blaine Will Be Elected.

The New York Times, one of the Mugwump supporters of the Administration, had the following interview with Hon. Chauncey M. Depew:

"Mr. Depew, the readers of the Times would like an inkling of your views on the present political situation.

"O, I have nothing to say about politics; it is too early to talk about it. There is a new element in the field that will have to be taken into consideration in forecasting the future of politics in this country. It may not be lasting, but it will certainly affect the coming Fall elections and the Presidential election next year. So far as this State is concerned I see no reason why the Republican party may not maintain its ascendency in the Legislature and possibly elect its State ticket this Fall."

"How about the next Presidential election? I suppose Mr. Cleveland will get a renomination from the Democrats."

"Unquestionably; and Mr. Blaine will be nominated by the Republicans. It is equally certain that the labor movement will present a candidate of its own. Probably two-thirds or three-quarters of the voters enlisted in this movement will be drawn from the Democratic party, so that with this setting up of the plus Mr. Blaine is pretty sure to win."

"Do you think the rebel flags order will injure Mr. Cleveland's chances?"

"Not his chances of a renomination nor to any great extent perhaps his chances of election. The former are greatly improved—made certain in fact—by that order. He will now have the solid South for his renomination, which he did not have before, while the order will not materially affect the action of the Northern half of the Democracy. Comparatively few persons who feel outraged at the order for the return of the rebel flags are in the habit of voting the Democrat ticket any way, and it is not likely to have much affect on the nomination. When it comes to the election, however, I imagine a great many voters who would otherwise be favorably disposed toward Mr. Cleveland will say to themselves: 'Well, he made a bad blunder anyhow, and such a blunder as he could not have made if he had been imbued with the feeling that animated the loyal men of the North during the war.'

"The trouble with Mr. Cleveland is that he showed to the country in issuing that order that he hadn't the remotest conception of the feeling and sentiment of the loyal soldiers of the North, or ever of the loyal citizens of either party in the North. It is said in excuse for him that the issuing of the order was an inadvertence, but it was such an inadvertence as could only emanate from an un intellect that was either entirely stolic or that took no interest in and had no sympathy for the war for the Union at the time it was being fought. Mr. Cleveland needed to be educated on that point, and he has been educated, but the misfortune with him is that he received his education after instead of before he issued his order. On the whole, I am of the opinion, therefore, that this incident of his Administration will have more or less unfavorable effect upon the vote, even of Democrats, when he comes up for re-election. But there are other and weightier reasons why he can not be re-elected with Blaine as an opposing candidate if I am correct in my judgment of the present position and future prospects of political parties in this country."

Work of Cleveland Reformers.

"Free" Rasin, boss of the Baltimore Democracy, had everything his own way in the primaries Wednesday. The reform Democrats who had pledged themselves to an honest registration and fair elections, were snowed under. Boodle, patronage and repeaters did the business. Everything had been prearranged; orders were sent from the City Hall, Customhouse and Post-office that office-holders must not only vote and work for the ring ticket but also show an open ticket. In case these commands were disobeyed the office-holders and street employes were threatened with dismissal.

Rasin forces were under general supervision of the United States naval officer himself, and he was ably assisted by Appointment Clerk of the Treasury Eugene Higgins and Indian Inspector Morris A. Thomas, both of whom came from Washington to assist with work and counsel. They were stationed at headquarters in Barnum's Hotel, where they received reports from the ward bosses throughout the day as to the progress of the election. Other Government officials taking an active part were Special Agent of the Treasury John J. Mahon and "Hack" Quinn, clerk to the Steamboat Inspectors. Gresham Hugh, one of the chiefs of division in the Interior Department, was also on hand. Indeed, but for the few Republican and civil service clerks, the Custom House would have been absolutely deserted. Roughs and repeaters were brought from neighboring cities. One gang from Wilmington, headed by Gus O'Donnell, came over on Tuesday night, and another crowd was sent from Washington. The reform workers were threatened with bodily harm. Even the police were intimidated. They gave latitude to the Rasin heelers who jeered and hooted at voters, and when answer was made the police would threaten to turn the voter out of line.

"On one side of each voting window spies were stationed, and every ring man who came with a folded ticket was called on to open it. When he refused his name was taken down as a subject for future chastisement. The whole thing was a farce and a fraud. Intimidation, bribery and coercion were practiced, and once more was demonstrated the impossibility of obtaining fair primaries in that city. As it was, Rasin swept the decks. Out of twenty wards the opposition succeeded in reclaiming only four, so that the boss can name the next governor, and control the delegations in Senate and House if the Democrats win. Now the Republicans have a good chance if they name a strong ticket in the city.

An Unlucky Comparison.

A Washington despatch says: General Black has opened the campaign of 1888 rather early. It is apparent that he has great faith in the staying powers of his "boomlet." It is possible also that he is trying to trim sail so that the Administration may be able to weather any storm which may be caused by the adoption at the National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic of resolutions disapproving the veto of the Dependent Pension bill, condemning the rebel battle flag order, and exposing the false pretences in Mr. Cleveland's letter withdrawing his acceptance of the St. Louis invitation. General Black's latest campaign document, like all those which he has caused to be compiled heretofore at the public expense, is statistical; like them it is weak in the extreme, but it exceeds all of them in impudence.

The number of private pension acts approved by Grant, Hayes and Arthur respectively is compared with the number of such acts approved by Cleveland, in order to convince Union veterans that the author of ninety-two pension veto messages in a single session of Congress is a greater patriot and a better friend of the disabled soldier or the soldier's widow than was U. S. Grant, R. B. Hayes or C. A. Arthur. It is true that Mr. Cleveland approved more pension acts than either of them; it is also true that he vetoed ten times as many as all of them, and that in many cases he could not refrain from bestowing sneers and insults, not only on the proposed beneficiaries, but on the veterans of the war as a class. On the whole a comparison more unfortunate for Mr. Cleveland could not have been made. It is interesting, however, as evidence of the desperate strait in which the Administration finds itself.

General Black's statements respecting the number of soldiers and sailors and their "kindred" who have been appointed since he took charge of the Pension Bureau should be received with a large grain of allowance. To begin with, most of the men whose names are "starred" in the department register to indicate services in the Army or Navy, were appointed long before he emerged from the strict retirement in which his fellow-citizens had kept him for many years. In the second place, there is no means of testing the accuracy of his statement respecting the sons and daughters and other kindred of soldiers and sailors appointed by him. If it is not more trustworthy than other politico official information, prepared and published under his direction, it will not bear examination. It is probably is entitled to no more credence than to be ballast of the matter which he caused to be furnished to the Democratic Congressional Committee last year for publication in that remarkable "Campaign Text-Book."

ICE-CREAM FREEZER.

PATENTED.

The "Rapid" is the result of a careful study of the requirements of an efficient durable and economical Freezer. The principles of its construction present the following meritorious points:

Active circulation of the material to be frozen between the circumference and centre of the can, insuring rapid freezing.

Double action of the can and beater; these revolving at high speed in opposite directions, gives the desired result with much saving of time and labor.

The acceptable form of the beater, producing a very smooth quality of Ice-Cream, and, by aeration, increasing its bulk two-fold.

AUTOMATICALLY, to the side of the can, thoroughly removes the frozen cream adhering thereto, the same being replaced by the less frozen portion transferred from the centre by the action of the beater.

The enlarged capacity of the can, which is guaranteed to hold fully five per cent. more than the quantity designated.

The unusual capacity of the tub, which permits of entirely covering the can, as well as the sides of the can, with the ice and salt.

The special pattern of the iron cross-bar, carrying the gear-wheels, which presents no obstruction when filling the tub with the ice and salt.

The careful and accurate fitting of the working parts, by which are gained ease in operation and economy in wear.

The choice character of the materials used; the hub of white cedar, the can of heavy tin plate, with solid iron cover and bottom, and all the iron parts galvanized to prevent rust.

SATURDAY, JULY 23, 1887

MAINE NEWS.

FROM OLD ORCHARD.

The Salvation Army Camp.

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, July 22. Many new arrivals were seen at the Salvation army quarters this afternoon. The meetings are growing in interest. "Just getting warmed up to the work," is the way leading officers expressed it to-day. At 3 o'clock a calvary charge was made on the devil's bulwarks, under the leadership of Major Lampton, of Lewiston, and Adjutant Palmer. To-night a full surrender service was held, led by Major Gay and wife.

FROM LEWISTON.

General Butler Departs from Poland Springs.

LEWISTON, July 22. General Butler left Poland Springs this morning by early train for Portland. It is understood that he will board his yacht at Portland and leave for Boston at once.

FROM CALAIS.

Salvation Army Men Bring Suits for Damages.

CALAIS, July 22. Three of the members of the Salvation Army, who were arrested last Tuesday and lodged in jail, have employed counsel and will commence suits against Mayor McKusick, City Marshal Hutchings and others, for false imprisonment. It is understood that the Salvationists have prominent and wealthy citizens supporting them; and the suits will be energetically pushed.

FROM WATERVILLE.

Supposed Incendiary Fire.

WATERVILLE, July 22. Fire broke out in the heart of the village this morning at four o'clock. The dwelling house and outbuildings of Mrs. Nathaniel Stedman were nearly consumed and the stable of L. A. Dow. Loss $2,000. The fire is supposed to have been incendiary.

FROM BIDDEFORD.

The School District System Abolished.

BIDDEFORD, July 22. The City Council, at a special meeting to-night, voted to abolish the school district system and place all the school property under the authority of the city. The main object is to save the extra expense of assessing and collecting the special school tax, incurred by the recent vote to erect a new High School house.

Physician Arrested for Malpractice.

Dr. E. G. Stevens, a physician in Biddeford, was arrested this afternoon charged with malpractice upon Miss Mary Hall, an operative in the York mills, Saco, arraigned in the Municipal Court, pleaded not guilty, and was placed under $500 bonds for his appearance Tuesday morning. He is over seventy years old, and a graduate of the Biddeford Medical School. Miss Hall was taken ill in Saco. An operation is alleged to have been performed at the house of her uncle, and she then was conveyed to Kennebunkport where she now lies at the point of death. Rev. Father Harrington, pastor of St. Mary's church of this city, called to visit her and from friends learned the alleged cause of her illness. He came to Biddeford and engaged a lawyer to prosecute the case. Miss Hall charged Dr. Stevens with the crime and gave all the facts concerning the matter. The arrest caused a great sensation here. Miss Hall is twenty-two and her physician says she cannot live.

THE ARGUS AND STATE TREASURER BURLEIGH.

A Handsome Endorsement of his Action.

PORTLAND, July 22. The Argus will publish in the morning the following editorial concerning the aspersion cast on State Treasurer Burleigh's conduct in the matter of procuring the engraving of the new state bonds:

"With reference to the new State bonds, complaint in regard to the procurement of which was made in a communication to the Argus some time since, we have now seen that we have looked into the matter carefully, and are satisfied that the course pursued by State Treasurer Burleigh was wise and for the best interests of the State. We are to gratified to say this as the more because we have long known Mr. Burleigh, and always regarded him as honest and straightforward in his dealings, and that opinion of him remains unchanged."

THE YACHT VOLUNTEER.

Her Trial Trip Yesterday.—She Behaves Splendidly.

MARBLEHEAD, July 22. Rain fell from early morning until noon, when it began to clear. At 2 o'clock the wind showed signs of freshening, and Capt. Hoff, of the Volunteer, gave orders to get ready to race for Nahant, Gen Paine's home. At 2 o'clock swung around and stood out of the harbor. She moved very slowly, as the wind was light and she had only her mainsail set. A score of boats filled with men and boys followed her, and on various headlands were crowds of men and women, who waved handkerchiefs and cheered her as she passed, Capt Hoff returning the salutes by waving his hat. Schooner yacht Ambassadress gave her a parting salute and at 2.30 the Volunteer rounded Point Neck Light. A few minutes later she sighted her immense mainsail and stood off towards Half Way Rock.

There Was a Heavy Sea

and the wind was freshening. The Volunteer drove and pitched into the sea, but very easily, making light work of it. After keeping her off for some distance Capt Hoff brought her up into the wind and her fore-stay-sail was set. During the next fifteen minutes Captain Hoff kept luffing, evidently swinging up her big mainsail. All this time the wind had been stiffening and it was now blowing a good fifteen knot breeze. Her sails set badly and the mainsail appeared to be doing but little good. At 3.05 Capt. Hoff brought the vessel in stays. She worked quickly and well and at once pointed her nose toward Nahant. Here she began to show herself and Presented a Splendid Picture.

She was on the port tack and doing fine sailward work, ploughing through the water at great speed. Her mainsail drew well and she made a good twelve miles an hour, and made it evident to all who had followed her that she stood up under the frequent flaws of wind better than the Mayflower ever did and went through the water more easily. As a sailor expressed it, "she sailed as a boat ought to sail, on her bottom, not on her broadsides." At 4 o'clock she stood into Nahant where Gen. Paine was landed at his summer home. At 4.15 she got under way and started on her return to Marblehead, where she arrived at 5.45.

While on the Return

the bobstay became unscrewed from the cap on the bowsprit, which formed the ground for a sensational report that the vessel had been disabled. Captain Hoff says the Volunteer behaved splendidly and he is much pleased with the trial to-day. To-morrow afternoon the vessel sails for Boston. Captain Hoff considers the Volunteer a better boat in a head sea than either the Puritan or the Mayflower, and shows more stability.

THE OAR.

International Single Scull Regatta.

NEW YORK, July 22. Arrangements were made to-day for an international single scull rowing regatta at Oswego Falls, near Fulton, in August.

OUR BAR HARBOR MELANGE.

Pleasant Personal Paragraphs.

Eager Eyes Watch for Expected Excursions.

Medical Men of Hancock Meet.

[Special Correspondence Whig and Courier.]

BAR HARBOR, July 22. Quite a heavy rain has been falling during the greater part of to-day and the weather is so cool as to make a fire a necessity.

The hop at the Malvern last night was a most brilliant affair, all the fashionable people being present.

Society here this year is robbed of much of its usual gaiety by the absence of Mrs. Rowler and the death of Mrs. James P. Scott who were the Ladies Bountiful in the way of entertainments and amusements. The latest advices from London state that Mrs. Scott was sitting reading to her husband in apparently perfect health when suddenly she fell over dead. Heart disease is given as the cause.

The parade of Prof. Burton's trained dogs, followed by the band belonging to Wilson's Minstrels, drew a crowd to Main street to-day.

The Hancock County Medical Association held its annual meeting in the office of Dr. Rogers to-day. Those present were Drs. Hodgkins, Phillips, Bunker and Patten, of Ellsworth, Drs. Rogers, King and Arthur and James Moore, of Bar Harbor and Dr. Phillips, of South West Harbor. Dr. Rogers was chosen President, Dr. Patten Treasurer and Dr. King Secretary for the ensuing year. Dr. Hodgkins read a very interesting and exhaustive paper on Pyroxia, which was followed by a long discussion.

W. E. Richardson and Howard Emery are about to begin building cottages on two lots between the Hamilton House and the Methodist parsonage. The ground has been broken upon one.

Next week will be one of excursions—a large one comes in from Boston the 25th remaining until the 28th. On the 26th

The Grand Master

Mason of Massachusetts, accompanied by several of his deputies and other prominent Masons are expected here to remain until the 28th also.

There are seventy people stopping at the Kimball House, Northeast Harbor.

Hon. James W. Bradbury, of Augusta, formerly United States Senator, accompanied by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. H. K. Bradbury and child, arrived last night.

Hon. Calvin Frost and family have taken possession of their cottage.

Judge L. A. Emery, of Ellsworth, is in town.

Col. A. E. Neill, of Gov. Bodwell's staff, paid Bar Harbor a flying visit to-day.

The yacht Adonis, of Boothbay, Capt. Johnson, with a party of western people on board, are at anchor here.

There will be a hop at the Rodick to-night.

FROM CASTINE.

Items of Interest.

[Special Correspondence of Whig and Courier.]

CASTINE, July 22. The yacht Clytie, of Boston, laid here over Tuesday, anchored off the steamboat wharf. She had a party of guests who spent the evening in viewing the beauties of our town.

The yacht Una, of Boston, sailed in and out about three o'clock Wednesday afternoon with a party of ladies and gents.

The Bangor yachting party which left here on Saturday in the Daphne returned Wednesday and report a delightful trip.

Boss Hale is the name of a small steam launch which came in here Monday night from Camden, bound for Ellsworth. The launch was built in Camden by Bramhall for Senator Eugene Hale and B. T. Sowle, Esq., of Ellsworth, to run for pleasure on Reed's Pond, where she will be taken from Ellsworth. She was in command of Capt. J. W. Nealley, with Engineer Bramhall, B. T. Sowle, Esq., Dr. W. M. Haynes and B. J. Franklin, made up the party who went over from Ellsworth to take her round. They stopped here until five Tuesday morning when she steamed out, hoping to get through that night.

The Curtis-Wilcox Comedy Company began their engagement in Town Hall, on Monday night, by presenting the Drama entitled "Lady Audley's Secret," followed by the Dramas "Our Boys" Tuesday night, "East Lynne" Wednesday night, and "Fanchon the Cricket" Thursday night.

Schooner Carrie T. Rogers, of Southport, Me., came in on Tuesday, and after making a good sale of salt fish, sailed.

Mr. Geo. L. Weeks, is building a piazza around the front part of his residence, which when done will add greatly to the looks of the house.

The Acadian now has a large number of guests who are delighted with the beautiful weather which has prevailed for several days. The Acadian and Castine itself is becoming more popular every day with the people who seek comfort and rest combined with pleasure, Manager Ford is doing everything for the amusement of his guests.

NEW YORK.

General Sheridan Arrives from the West.

NEW YORK, July 22. Gen. Phil Sheridan was met in the corridor of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, this morning, by a reporter. He was on his way to New Bedford, Mass., where his family are stopping. "I have just got in from the west," continued the General, "Everything is hot and dry out there." In answer to a query as to the probability of an Indian outbreak the General said he did not believe one would occur. He denied the saying attributed to him that the best Indian was a dead one.

Return of Impecunious Emigrants.

Judge Lacombe, in United States Circuit Court-to-day, decided that when Commissioners of Emigrants order that certain persons who come to this country, and are liable to be a charge on the country, must return whence they came. The order is absolute, and the Court has no jurisdiction in the matter.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

Adjournment of Convention of District 30.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 22. The convention of District 30, Knights of Labor, adjourned to-day at 1.30. The morning session was taken up with a fight over the eligibility of John C. Short as delegate to the national convention. McNeil stands first on list of alternates and a contest is being made for Short's place by the McNeil faction. The matter was referred to the District Master Workman and an appeal taken. No settlement was reached and the subject will probably go for decision to the national convention or to the Grand Master Workman.

A SINGULAR SICKNESS.

A Summer Resort Depopulated.

PROVIDENCE, July 22. Within two days the guests at Conanicut Park Hotel have been seized with an illness of inexplicable origin, which is dreaded so generally that they have all left and the hotel is closed. The symptoms were disturbances from the bowels, nausea and general debility. One of the physicians thinks the trouble is aerial rather than malarial. The water of the well which supplies the hotel has been analyzed, and found to be fair water. "By some the ice used is said to be impure. The outbreak was fairly limited in season at the one of the island.

GREAT FIRE IN ST. PAUL.

Havoc Among the Wholesale Houses.

The Fire Still Raging.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 22. Shortly after 11 P. M. fire broke out in the wholesale grocery house of the P. H. Kelley Mercantile Company, Third street, and spread to the Minnesota spice mills, William H. Barbank's wholesale clothing house, Beaupre, Keogh & Co's. wholesale grocery house, and is now making havoc in the wholesale district in this city.

THE EMIGRANT QUESTION.

Views of Grand Master Workman Powderly.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 22. Grand Master Workman Powderly has written another letter on the emigration question. In a communication to Hon. John E. Barrett, editor of the Scranton Truth, he says:

In regard to the statement published in the Scranton Republican, namely, that my plan contemplates the exclusion of all foreigners, except the few who come provided with sufficient means to sustain themselves for a year, if necessary, without employment, I desire to state that an emigrant should come with sufficient to maintain himself a year, if necessary. It is because so many of them are out of employment, and because so many of them of employment, that I do not want an emigrant to come until he can be sure of employment without robbing another of it. That is the case in a nut shell. I am gathering statistics and data on which to base a plan of dealing with this important question. Until that is done and I announce it as my plan, neither the Republican or any one else is authorized to promulgate a plan for the regulation of the emigration question and label it "the Powderly plan." Statesmanship of the highest order will be required to handle this problem in the near future and the fullest light possible shed on it.

The editor of the Republican when in Congress voted to exclude the Chinese. Was it not un-American to do so? Why single out the Hungarian?

What Does it Matter

to the American workman who it is that takes his situation away from him and does his work for less pay? I would as leave have a Hungarian take my situation as an Irishman, or an Englishman; the cost to me would be the same in the end; but the Hungarian and the Chinese do not vote and this makes the difference. I would shut out every man and woman who would deprive American citizens, native or naturalized, of employment. It sounds very fine and certainly sentimental to say that this country is the home for the oppressed, and it is un-American to talk of keeping people away from our shores, but with a million men and women out of employment and the number increasing with every move, it will soon be un-Christian as well as un-American to invite people here to starve themselves.

FROM WASHINGTON.

News About the Capital.

The Counting of the Cash Completed.

WASHINGTON, July 22. The only discrepancy found in examining the books and accounts of ex-Treasurer Jordan, before turning the office over to Mr. Hyatt, was a shortage of $3.50 in a bag of coins, evidently due to an error in counting the coins when the bag was filled. The clerk who did the counting has made good the amount.

FOREIGN NEWS.

"You Can Judge of My Surprise."

LONDON, July 22. Right Hon. William A. Smith, Government leader, was asked in the House of Commons this afternoon by Mr. Ellis, if there was any truth in the widespread report that the Queen had sent for Lord Hartington, to induce him to join the ministry. Mr. Smith replied that he had only now heard the statement for the first time, and could only say that it caused him great surprise. (Laughter.)

Protection to British Trade.

The Marquis of Salisbury, replying to a deputation which called to urge the Government to take some action to protect British trade from the effects of foreign competition, assisted by bounties said it was impossible to speak too strongly of the injustice which the foreign bounty systems inflicted on British workmen. A European Conference, he said, would soon consider the matter, and in the meantime he could only say that there were two ways for Englishmen to deal with their assailants in this contest. If reason failed Englishmen might return the blow.

Russian Occupation of Kerki.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Times denies that orders exist in Kerki on the Oxus in Turkestan. The Russian occupation has, the correspondent avers, benefited the inhabitants who, he adds, appreciate Russia's work in maintaining order and protecting trade. Russia notified England a month before hand that she intended to occupy Kerki.

The Freedom of the City of Dublin.

DUBLIN, July 22. The Corporation of Dublin to-day conferred the freedom of the city on William O'Brien, editor of United Ireland, and Hon. Patrick A. Collins, of Boston, who is now visiting Boston.

One of the members of St. Alban Commandery which was here yesterday lost a gold pin in the form of a star, with the words "Harry, from Dan," on the back. The finder can leave it with one of the members of St. John's Commandery and it will be forwarded to the owner.

A car load of flint rock was sent from Mt. Kineo a day or two ago to Hallowell to be ground up and used for making sand paper. This is the first quantity ever sent from Mt. Kineo for this purpose and it is an experiment to see if the rock will answer the purpose intended. Mount Kineo is composed almost wholly of this kind of rock.

The drives have been having a hard time of it for a few days and have not made much progress, this being particularly so with the East Branch drive. There seems to be something of a scarcity of water in some places and this, in connection with the head winds which have blown, causes quite a delay in the advance of the drives.

The schooner Clara E. Colcord cleared yesterday with ice for Baltimore from the Katahdin Ice Company's houses, and the Grace Davis, for Richmond, Va., with ice from Ayer's. The British bark Neophyte clears, probably to-day, with spool wood for Greenock, Scotland, and the George V. Jordan with ice from the Penobscot River Ice Company for Baltimore.

Mr. N. W. Littlefield has resigned his position as Superintendent of the West Bangor Sunday School, in which capacity he has served for eight consecutive years. The services of Mr. Littlefield have been greatly appreciated by those with whom he has come in contact, and he will be much missed by teachers and scholars. Other cares make his resignation necessary.

The temperance camp meeting at Northport will be held the 2d, 3d, 4th and 5th of August, and several prominent speakers have been engaged for the occasion. The following musical talent have been secured: Rev. A. A. Lewis, leader, C. R. Lougee, cornetist, Mrs. Dr. Swett, of Bangor, and Miss Bicknell, of Belfast, organists, the Apollo Quartette and several prominent soloists.

RAPID TRANSIT. Fred J. Biather, who is Baggage Master on the night Pullman on the Maine Central, did some rapid work in the early part of the week. He left Portland at 11.15 Monday night, arriving at Bangor at 5.30 A. M. Leaving here at 7 he arrived at Belfast at 10, was married at 12, left with his bride at 4 by steamer, arriving in Bangor in season to take his regular train at 8 P. M., for Portland. Mr. and Mrs. Biather will make Portland their future home.

REGIMENTAL RE-UNION. The Twelfth Annual Re-union of the Association composed of the veterans of the Sixteenth Regiment Maine Volunteer Infantry, will be held at Gardiner, on Wednesday and Thursday, August 10th and 11th. Business Meetings of the Association will be held on Wednesday, at 10 A. M. and 2 P. M. THE HIBERNIANS' EXCURSION. The managers of the A. O. H. excursion at Maranacook, July 27th, state they have completed all arrangements and have attended to every detail in connection therewith. The committee on the various sports have received several notable entries. Among them are the following: O'Neil, late of Manchester, Eng., now living in Bangor; McCovern and O'Brien, of Portland, winners of last year's amateur and professional race, 100 yards dash, and Rogers, of Lewiston. There have also been two entries for the nove boat race. The rates of fare are the lowest this season. Adults, $1.00; children, 50 cents.

We received a pleasant call last evening from Representative Milliken who is on his way to Bar Harbor.

GARLAND NOTES. Our correspondent writes: No such crop of hay was ever housed in Garland as is being harvested this year. Every available building will be used for storing hay and grain.——Mrs. John Batchelder, living in the east part of the town, died suddenly of heart disease last week.——Mrs. Chase, widow of the late Rider Chase, died Monday at the age of ninety years.——The old cheese factory is being moved to another position and two new buildings, for the corn canning business, will be built on its site. Four men have been at work making cans and they have a large stock of them ready to use.

AN IMPORTANT LAW SUIT. General Benj. F. Butler was in Portland Wednesday afternoon with his associate counsel, Representative L. C. Southard, of Boston, taking the deposition of Mrs. Sarah A. Preble, widow of the late Judge Preble of Portland, in the suit which she has brought in the United States Circuit Court against the well known brokers' firm of Bates & Walley, State Street, Boston, to recover $60,000 of her stocks and bonds, which she claims the defendants wrongfully converted to their own use. The deposition was taken at the office of Clarence Hale, Esq. Samuel Hoar, of Boston, appeared as counsel for the defendants.

THE CITY STREETS. The city men under the superintendence of Street Commissioner Brackett have been building a new street named Pier street, connecting Hammond and Johnson. The road machine has been put over West Broadway, Jones, Union, Pond and Cedar streets lately, not only to improve the appearance of these streets, but also to obtain the necessary earth to fill in upon Pier street. Some first class work is being done upon the city streets this year and there is a great improvement in their usefulness and appearance. The work has kept the Street Department busy this season as many of the streets and roads were left in pretty bad condition after the frost had left the ground, heavy teams having cut them up.

DEATH OF ALBERT H. LEIGHTON. Mr. Albert H. Leighton, who for the past two years has been in ill health, necessitating his retirement from the plumbing firm of Getchell, Leighton & Co., of which he was a member, suffered a shock of paralysis a week ago to-night, since which he has been unconscious and steadily failing until yesterday about one o'clock, when death put an end to his sufferings. He was forty years of age and had many friends who will regret his death although it has not come unexpectedly. He leaves a wife and one little child, the latter too young to know its loss. His funeral will take place from his late residence, No. 44 Centre street, to-morrow afternoon at half-past two o'clock.

SAD DROWNING ACCIDENT. A sad drowning accident occurred yesterday forenoon at Tewksbury's shipyard, the victim being Harry, the seven years old son of Capt. H. A. Pitcher, of Rockland, of the schooner Thomas R. Pillsbury. The little boy had been at play in a row boat, and about the shore, during the forenoon, and was missed by his father late in the forenoon. Soon after one o'clock the dead body of the little fellow was discovered in the water alongside the vessel, and it was at once taken out, and a physician and Coroner Whitney sent for. Life was extinct and, after an examination into the affair, Coroner Whitney deemed an inquest unnecessary. Nobody saw the little fellow fall into the water and it is not known how it happened. It was a very sad accident and the afflicted parents will have the sympathy of all.

A RECORD TO BE PROUD OF. I. C. Libby, Esq., of Burnham, has just completed his twelve hundredth trip from Maine to Brighton market. He has travelled by rail over 600,000 miles, or a distance equal to going around the earth twenty-five times, without injury by accident. He has sold in Brighton market over 100,000 head of cattle, besides large numbers of sheep, for which he has received over $7,000,000. He has paid railroads for freight on live stock, $250,000. Has followed the market twenty-eight years and is 58 years old. He has never drank or tasted of any kind of intoxicating liquors in his life time, never smoked a cigar or pipe or played a game of cards. He is attending the market regularly each week, and is selling more than half of all the cattle and sheep shipped out of Maine, besides having several other branches of business that call for his personal attention. His is a busy life with plenty of variety.

A NARROW ESCAPE. Two young men belonging in this city had a very narrow escape from drowning last Wednesday at Pushaw Lake. They were sailing on the lake in a wind that made well reefed sails a necessity and, when near Newcome's Landing, the boat was suddenly capsized by a squall. One of them could not swim, but they got the boat partly upright and stood in the bottom with the water rapidly running in. Luckily their predicament was seen by Mr. Charles J. Jones and another gentleman who were sailing near by and they went at once to the rescue. Just before they reached them the boat filled with water, down it sank and the occupants were left struggling in the lake. One of them caught hold of a rope on the rescuing boat and was soon after pulled aboard by the gentlemen sailing her. The other was rescued by persons who put out in a boat from shore. It was a narrow escape.

STEAMBOAT INSPECTIONS. Steamboat Inspectors William Flowers, of this city, and Charles Staples Jr., of Portland, have been on an inspecting tour this week and during that time have passed judgment on a number of steamers. Last Monday they began with the Una at Vassalboro, and the Queen at Newport. Thursday the Inspectors went to Moosehead Lake and inspected the Governor Coburn, which has been finely fixed up and painted, the Kineo, and the Carrie D., now owned by the Canadian Pacific Railroad and used to carry workmen and supplies at Brassua Lake. To-day the Inspectors examine the Winonah at Reed's Pond, and the Wawahmett at Eagle Lake. The new steamer Comet is having put into her a fine new engine from the firm of E. C. Wellington & Co.'s engine works at Weymouth, Mass., and she will be in running order in about ten days. During the week sixteen officers were commissioned by the Inspectors. The inspections for the season are now about half completed, and it has been a busy one for the Inspectors. There will be an increase of twenty-five steamers this season and all are to be visited by the officers.

SPEECHES AT THE HALL.

After the fine and generous bill of fare had been thoroughly discussed Sir Knight Maxfield rapped the assemblage to order and Eminent Commander Farnsworth, of St. Alban Commandery returned the thanks of his commandery to St. John's Commandery for the generous and cordial reception they had given, and referred pleasantly to the fact that in coming to Bangor he was returning to his old home, and gave some pleasing reminiscences of the early days of St. John's Commandery when they appeared out in their regalia for the first time, twenty-six strong, to receive a visit from Portland Commandery. It was very pleasing and grateful to him to return here after so many years absence and again heartily and cordially returning thanks for the warm welcome extended he closed by calling for three cheers for St. John's Commandery and three more for their ladies, which were given with a will.

The next Sir Knight introduced was Col. G. C. Connor, of Chattanooga, Tenn., Past Eminent Grand Commander of Knights Templar of Tennessee. Col. Connor, who referred to the fact that he was born in the Emerald Isle, is a man of fine presence and a most eloquent and fluent speaker. He spoke of this being his first visit to New England and the delight he had taken in his visit, both in the people and in the beautiful scenery of our State. Since his visit here he was prouder than ever that he was an American citizen; prouder than ever that the honor of citizenship had been conferred upon him. He should carry back with him to Tennessee happy recollections of this most delightful visit. He closed by saying: "As a representative of Tennessee I bring you all greeting to-night." His remarks were very happy and elicited much applause.

Rev. Marion Crosley, Prelate of St. Alban Commandery, was the next speaker. He said he could not claim to be "to the manner born," as he was not a native of New England, but a "carpet-bagger," as it were, having been born in the "Buckeye" State of Ohio, but he was glad to extend a cordial and fraternal greeting to the brother who was with us from a Southern State. He had enjoyed the pilgrimage from the start. The weather has been delightful, the scenery beautiful, old associations had been renewed and new ones formed, and this glorious entertainment was the climax. It was the most glorious reception and the most glorious occasion he had ever enjoyed. It is more to each other than the simple coming together, it is cementing of the bonds of union and of brotherly love. As a member of St. Alban Commandery he felt grateful to St. John's Commandery for their cordial greeting.

Past Grand Commander Joseph A. Locke, of Portland, next spoke.

He spoke of the origin of the order of Knights Templar, their original character and the objects and purposes of the order of the present time, and pointed out what he considered the duty of Knights Templar as men and as citizens. Referring to the present pilgrimage of the commandery he said it had been nothing but a series of delights from beginning to end. The elegant coaches on the special train which made their ride so easy, the delightful sail up the lake on the swift and commodious steamer, and the magnificent hotel, perfect in all its appointments, and than which none could be found which furnished a table better or served it better, together with the grand scenery and charming excursions, all combined to make the trip one of unalloyed enjoyment. He gave some pleasant reminiscences of the trip, relating some of the haps and mishaps which befel certain of the Sir Knights.

Sir Knight Locke's speech, which was one of his happiest, and greatly enjoyed, closed the dinner exercises, which were interspersed with choice music by Chandler's band stationed in the balcony.

THE PARADE.

The line was again formed in front of Norombega Hall about five o'clock for a parade through the city, and the Sir Knights headed by the Bangor and Chandler's Bands marched over the following route:

Through Central, East Market Square, up State to Grove, through Grove to Somerset, Somerset to Essex, Essex to Cumberland, Cumberland to Broadway where a halt was made while lemonade and cigars were partaken of. After a short rest the line of march was continued down Broadway to State, down State across Kenduskeag bridge, up Main to Masonic Hall. The route of procession arranged for the West side was given up owing to inclement weather, which threatened rain at any moment, and a few drops did fall. The procession made a handsome appearance on the streets and all along the line of march interested spectators viewed the marching Knights. The ladies of the party took part in the procession, riding in barouches and barges. The fine playing of both bands was highly complimented.

THE DEPARTURE.

After a short time passed in fraternal greetings and in conversation, the Knights again formed in line and were escorted to the Maine Central depot. The visiting Commandery left for Portland at about 7.15, by special train, after handshaking and cheers from St. John's Commandery, the members of which received much pleasure from the visit of their brothers of St. Alban's Commandery, and hope they may come again soon. After the departure of the visitors St. John's Commandery marched to Masonic Hall and dispersed.

Ball Game To-day.

The only Belfasts will be here to-day and an exciting and well played contest may be looked for at Maplewood this afternoon. A very large crowd will undoubtedly witness the game if the weather is pleasant, as these games always draw well, everybody knowing that the money's worth of ball playing will be given. The teams are so nearly balanced that the issue is a matter of doubt and this uncertainty makes it all the more interesting. Larrabee will probably play second base on the Bangors.

Notes.

A brother of Leahy's who has been playing on the Hartfords will be here soon and play on the Bangors. He has an excellent record as catcher.

The Bangors go to Rockland Monday on the M. & M. and play the reorganized Rocklands in the afternoon.

DIGESTYLIN

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

A POTENT REMEDY FOR

Indigestion, Acute and Atonic Dyspepsia, Chronic and Gastro-Intestinal Catarrh, Cholera Infantum, and in convalescence from Acute Diseases.

Over 5,000 physicians have sent to us the most flattering opinions upon Digestylin as a remedy for all diseases arising from improper digestion.

For 20 years we have manufactured the Digestive Ferments expressly for PHYSICIANS' use, and for the past year DIGESTYLIN has been by them extensively prescribed, and to-day it stands without a rival as a digestive agent. It is not a secret remedy but a scientific preparation, the formula of which is plainly printed on each bottle. Its great DIGESTIVE POWER is created by a careful and proper treatment of the ferments by manufacture. It is very agreeable to the taste, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach. For the reliability of our statements we would respectfully refer to all Wholesale and Retail Druggists, and PHYSICIANS generally. Price $1.00. Sold by Druggists, or CHAPTER IX.

If Lady Bracknell's motives for luring Beauchamp away from her sister-in-law's side were obscure to Lord Staines, they did not to a reflective person appear quite unfathomable. When only one life intervenes between your husband and a large property it must, no doubt, seem deplorable that that life should be supplemented by others, and I can well believe that to see Beauchamp married would have gone to Hilda's heart, even though he should select as his wife a member of her husband's family. It is true that she can hardly have hoped to keep him permanently single, but she may have taken into consideration that existence is precarious, and that young men addicted to field sports run frequent risks of breaking their necks. Add to this she did not love Lord Staines, while she detested Lady Mildred with the intensity of an impostor who has been found out, am you have an explanation of her conduct which is at least plausible. I don't say that it is the true explanation, because I cannot pretend to be able to follow all the tortuous workings of such a mind as Hilda's; but that the course which events subsequently took was premeditated and contrived by her in cold blood seems to me too violent an hypothesis. In any case there could be no question as to the fact that she had marked Beauchamp down as her prey, nor did she fail to capture him.

He surrendered unconditionally at the first blow, and spent the remainder of the London season upon his knees, metaphorically speaking. I used to meet him and his enchantress pretty frequently at balls and crushes, and always watched them with interest. Other people watched them too, making such spiteful, ironical, or condemnatory comments upon the proceedings of the pair as were prompted by their several dispositions and by the nature of the case; but by the persons who have been introduced into this history, it so chanced that they were little remarked. Lady Mildred, who was in constant attendance upon her father, went very seldom into society; Bracknell had of late years ceased to frequent the circles which, as a bachelor, he had so conspicuously adorned; and those of Jim's friends who had not forgotten him during his long absence belonged for the most part to his own sex, and were not in the habit of giving balls. Thus Lady Bracknell was able to carry out her designs unmolested; and as Beauchamp continued to pay visits to Portman square with unfailing regularity, any anxiety that Lord Staines may have felt on the day of the cricket match was probably soon allayed.

Sunning, to be sure, very nearly let the cat out of the bag one afternoon when Jim and I called at his grandfather's house. We found him and the old gentleman with a tea table between them, busily engaged in eating hot buttered toast. Lady Mildred was pouring out the tea, and Beauchamp, reclining in an arm chair, looked very much as if he was wondering how soon he might venture to go away.

"I do not think it is very dangerous," Lady Mildred was saying as we entered; and after she had shaken hands with us she appealed for support to Jim. "Mr. Leigh, do you think it is safe for such a mite as Sunning to ride in the Row with nobody but a groom to look after him? And he always makes the groom ride a hundred yards behind."

"From what I have seen of the equestrian performances in the Row, I don't think it is an over and above safe place for anybody to ride in," answered Jim, laughing.

"But seriously," persisted Lady Mildred, "I don't like to think of that child in the thick of such a crowd. He has one of those wicked little Shetland ponies, too, which might overpower him at any moment."

Sunning, with his mouth full of buttered toast, was understood to say that he would like to see the pony that could overpower him.

Lord Staines chuckled. "He can take care of himself—trust him! All the same, I think Bracknell might go out with the boy."

Sunning, having swallowed his toast, informed us that his father never rode in London.

"And I mustn't ride with mother when he's there," he added, pointing a greasy forefinger at Beauchamp.

"Eh?—what?—who?" ejaculated Lord Staines, pricking up his ears.

And Sunning did not spend matters by continuing, in his lisping, childish treble, "Before he came there was another gentleman, but I think he's gone away now. Mother says not to ride with her when there's a gentleman."

"Would he be so very much in your way?" asked Lady Mildred, turning to Beauchamp, with just the faintest touch of disdain in her voice.

"Not the least in the world," answered the young man. "I am very sorry if I have prevented Lady Bracknell from taking him out, and the next time—if there is a next time—I'll make a point of requesting the favor of his company. I'm really, I don't ride with Lady Bracknell very often."

"Every day," said the relentless Sunning emphatically.

This was a little embarrassing, but Beauchamp, though young, was a man of experience, and his serenity was not easily disturbed. "You don't mean to say so?" he exclaimed. "I'm very much ashamed of myself, and I'll apologize to Lady Bracknell the next time I see her. But that is just the sort of stupid thing that I'm always doing. She good naturedly asked me to ride with her one day, and I suppose I must have kept on going ever since from force of inhit. I'll tie a knot in my pocket handkerchief at once, so that I may remember to forget to go to-morrow."

I don't know whether he was only anxious to stifle suspicion, or whether he still contemplated the possibility of an ultimate union with Lady Mildred; but he made great efforts to be agreeable to her during the next quarter of an hour, and when he took his leave Lord Staines, who had evidently been alarmed for a moment, seemed to be quite reassured.

Jim, after we had left the house together, informed me casually that he considered the manners and customs of savages very superior upon the whole to those of so called civilized Christians, but declined to enter more fully into the subject when invited to do so. "It doesn't matter; only that's my opinion," he said.

I am not acquainted with the customs of savages, except by hearsay; but our own I freely admit might be improved upon. One very tiresome custom, which, I fear, has become almost epidemic among us of late, is that of entertaining long suffering spectators with table aux vivants. Beauchamp had the honor of figuring in the only tableau of the evening which this hostess proposed to grace personally; that, namely, in which her ladyship, as Andromeda, with her beautiful bare arms chained above her head and her bronze hair rippling down over her shoulders, was rescued from destruction by a very Saxon looking Perseus. I ventured to suggest that Bracknell might represent the monster, but this was considered to be a purposition of doubtful taste, and as no one else volunteered to undertake that ungrateful part, we had an appalling creature constructed out of inanimate materials for the occasion.

If only it had been permissible to make use of an inanimate Perseus into the bargain, I should have been spared much mental wear and tear and a grievous waste of time; for Beauchamp declared that he was physically incapable of standing on one leg for sixty consecutive seconds, and it was obvious that unless he stood upon one leg he would spoil the whole thing. I had to put him through a complete course of gymnastics, and even then it was only by the most dil gent punching and kneading that I could force him into an attitude which was not positively grotesque. Whenever I left his side he, so to speak, tumbled to pieces instantly. However, in the long run we achieved as near an approach to success as could be expected, and when the representation came off this tableau was received with tremendous applause. I imagine that the majority of the spectators were lost in admiration of Andromeda's arms and shoulders and had no eyes for poor Perseus, who wabbled perceptibly.

Nevertheless, there were found persons to notice and remark upon Perseus too, if not exactly to admire him; and it chanced that, on the fall of the curtain, I was standing within ear shot of some of these. She was an elderly lady, blessed with three marriageable daughters, and in that capacity naturally opposed to the goings on of unscrupulous young matrons such as Lady Bracknell.

"It really is a little too bad," she said to her neighbor, "and I wonder that Lord Bracknell allows it. Of course we know that he is not over particular, and, as far as that goes, I dare say his own manner of life doesn't give him the right to be so, but I should have thought that even he would have seen how outrageous this kind of thing is, considering that Mr. Beauchamp is as good as engaged to his sister. Under the circumstances it's almost indecent."

I was having a little inward laugh at the "almost" in the above outburst of virtuous indignation when I became aware that some one besides myself had overheard it. Leaning against the wall behind me was Bracknell, who had not thought it necessary to be at home in time to receive his wife's guests, but had now come in, probably from his club. From the scowl upon his brow I concluded that he had been losing money; from the brightness of his eyes I feared that he had been drinking; and from the murderous glance which he shot at the dowager whose speech I have quoted I gathered that her unvarnished strictures were not agreeable to him. He muttered a word or two under his breath and turned away, leaving me in some doubt as to whether he was incensed against his wife or against her critic. But very shortly afterward all uncertainty as to that point was removed from my mind.

I had been invited to remain for a quiet supper after the departure of the general company. Beauchamp and a few others, who had been similarly favored, had already gone down to the dining room and I was lingering on the deserted stage with the fair Andromeda, when Bracknell suddenly entered and strode toward us. He either did not notice my presence or was indifferent to it.

"Hilda," he said, "you'll oblige me by dropping this; it has gone far enough. You think yourself very clever, no doubt; but it strikes me that you are in danger of being a little too clever, for once."

She turned slowly and surveyed him with calm contempt. "Had you better not go to bed?" she asked. "Perhaps you may be in a state to explain yourself in the morning."

Bracknell had the family temper, and I thought for a moment that he was going to treat us to a display of it; but possibly he may have learned by experience that storming at his wife was a thankless task.

"I am sober enough now," he returned quietly, "to tell you that I don't choose to have Mildred's marriage put a stop to for your gratification. How long, do you flatter yourself, that that young fool is going to trot about after you like a lap dog? Till this time next year? And what do you suppose will happen when you begin to bore him? You do begin to bore people after a certain time, I can assure you."

"I dare say that is quite true," replied Hilda, meekly; "you ought to know. Of course, I will obey you to the best of my ability; but I am afraid I can no more force Mr. Beauchamp to marry your sister than I can prevent you from insulting me before a third person."

At this juncture the third person executed a strategic movement in the direction of the door. But Bracknell interrupted me.

"You needn't withdraw, Maynard," said he, with a short laugh. "I've nothing more to say, and now we may as well go down and have some supper. I don't often interfere with her ladyship's little games, but I bel eve she knows that when I do she must give them up."

I observed, however, a slight smile upon her ladyship's lips, which convinced me that in this instance she had no intention at all of giving up her little game.

SKIN AND SCALP

Cleansed, Purified and Beautified by the Cuticura Remedies.

For cleansing the Skin and Scalp of Disfiguring Humors, for allaying Itching, Burning and Inflammation, for curing the first symptoms of Eczema, Psoriasis, Milk Crust, Scaly Head, Scrofula, and other inherited Skin and Blood Diseases, the great Skin Cure, and Cuticura Soap, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and Cuticura Resolvent, the new Blood Purifier, internally, are infallible.

A COMPLETE CURE.

I have suffered all my life with skin diseases of different kinds, and have never found permanent relief, until, by the advice of a lady friend, I used your valuable Cuticura Remedies. I gave them a thorough trial, using six bottles of the Cuticura Resolvent, two boxes of Cuticura and seven cakes of Cuticura Soap, and the result was just what I had been told it would be—a complete cure.

SALT RHEUM CURED.

I was troubled with Salt Rheum for a number of years, so that the skin entirely came off one of my hands from the finger tips to the wrist. I tried many remedies and doctors' prescriptions to no purpose until I commenced taking Cuticura Remedies, and now I am entirely cured.

DRUGGISTS ENDORSE THEM.

I have sold a quantity of your Cuticura Remedies. One of my customers, Mrs. Henry Klntz, who had tetter on her hands to such an extent as to cause the skin to peel off, and for eight years she suffered greatly, was completely cured by the use of your medicines.

C. N. NYE, Druggist, Canton, Ohio.

ITCHING, SCALY, PIMPLY.

For the last year I have had a species of itching, scaly and pimply humors on my face to which I have applied a great many methods of treatment without success, and which was speedily and entirely cured by Cuticura.

Miss. ISAAC PHELPS, Ravenna, O.

NO MEDICINE LIKE THEM.

We have sold your Cuticura Remedies for the last six years, and no medicines on our shelves give better satisfaction.

C. F. ATHERTON, Druggist, Albany, N. Y.

Cuticura Remedies are sold everywhere. Price: Cuticura, 50 cents; Resolvent, $1.00; Soap, 25 cts. Prepared by the Potter Drug and Chemical Co., Boston, Mass. Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

GRUBS, Pimples, Skin Blemishes, and Baby Humors cured by Cuticura Soap.

Catarrh to Consumption.

Catarrh in its destructive force stands next to and undoubtedly leads on to consumption. It is therefore singular that those afflicted with this fearful disease should not make it the object of their lives to rid themselves of it. Deceptive remedies concocted by ignorant pretenders to medical knowledge have weakened the confidence of the great majority of sufferers in all advertised remedies. They become resigned to a life of misery rather than torture themselves with doubtful palliatives.

But this will never do. Catarrh must be met at every stage and combated with all our might. If in many cases the disease has assumed dangerous symptoms. The bones and cartilages of the nose, the organs of hearing, of seeing and of tasting so affected as to be useless, the uvula so elongated, a constant and distressing cough, Sanford's Radical Cure meets every phase of loathsome and destructive stages. It is local and constitutional. Instant in relieving, permanent in effect, economical and never failing.

Each package contains one bottle of the Radical Cure, one box Catarrhal Solvent, and an Improved Inhaler, with treatise; price $1.

A GREAT DISCOVERY!

It is claimed to be the safest, most effectual remedy known for the cure of Piles. As a cathartic it cannot be excelled. It expels all kinds of worms, and for all creatures that infest the human body, or animals, are triumphantly expelled. It is a wonderful remedy. Testimony in its favor, from all sections where it is known, is said to effectually remove from the system tapeworm, and disagreeable worms of all kinds have been speedily and entirely expelled, and the invalid restored to health. In fact it is a mild and gentle laxative. It is a sovereign remedy. It is purely vegetable and can do no harm. It has also expelled several inches of eight inches in length, is spotted, looking like water spots, and is supposed to be a species of alligator. Pits caused by worms and indigestion.

BUY IT AND TRY IT.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

PRICE 35c. 50c and $1.00.
